Biodiversity in the Art of Carel Pieter Brest Van Kempen

The newest traveling exhibit to join our galleries will be arriving on January 17, 2015 to the Sternberg Museum. We are happy to welcome the art of Carel Pieter Brest Van Kempen in the Biodiversity exhibit. Van Kempen is a wildlife artist whose art is populated by under-represented species. He gives viewers a new perspective and a richer view of these species. The exhibit includes 50 paintings and captions as well as some drawings that show the creative process that Van Kempen goes through.

The Museum is planning a wildlife painting workshop with Van Kempen for the public the weekend of March 28-29, 2015. Also, be on the look out for members only events with this exhibit. More information will be in following newsletters about these workshops and events.

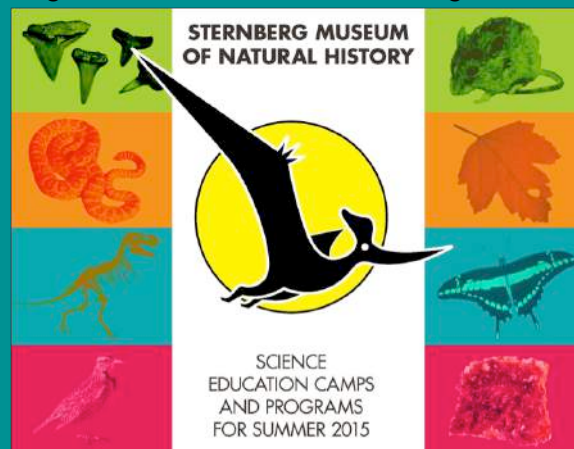

For more information about this exhibit or the events call the Museum at 785-628-4286.

2015 Camps Catalog is Live

The second year of Sternberg science camps is drawing near! We are excited to unveil an entirely new catalog with some new camps being offered as well as bringing back some of the favorites from last year. We are now accepting registrations for all of the camps so be sure to get your camper registered before they start filling up. To check out the camps catalog, go to <http://sternberg.fhsu.edu/wp/wp-content/uploads/2015-Sternberg-Science-Camps-catalog.pdf>. The catalog is best viewed in a browser other than Firefox.

For questions regarding camps or registration call David Levering at 785-628-5502.
